it's not going to do anything but cause headaches for the treasurers, even though some of them may be doing it, and I...I guess I'd be interested just a little comment on your part from...from the hearing because there was really very few that came in for this.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Um-hum.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Two against and two neutral and you were the lone proponent, so...

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Okay. And the only reason I think there was opposition at the hearing was because that was a mandatory installment payment. The bill, as introduced, would have set up a mandatory structure and...

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: And you really feel that county treasurers, maybe not as a group but mostly, feel that they're willing to take on this additional burden, additional paperwork, additional...

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: I don't...

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: ...potential to get caught in discussions between sellers and buyers, in this case, or whatever?

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Well, hopefully, we've provided enough structure so they won't, but it's up to them. I mean some of them, in fact, the county treasurer in Sarpy County...

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Well...

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: ...at one time took partial payments.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: ...what piqued my interest in this is what Senator Bromm said, is there really, when you do this voluntarily, those things may eventually become...you're going to be discussing interest. I see it you may provide interest; you may not. I mean taxpayers are going to demand that and...I would say in many cases.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Well, they don't from their escrow company
